

FROM MIDDLETOWN.—Affairs in the vicinity of Middletown begin to assume an aspect of some interest, and we look for some stirring news before long.

Yesterday morning, before day, the rebel pickets advanced as far down the road as Gilman's, and one of our pickets was killed. Yesterday our forces advanced again as far as Middletown. The numbers were not large, and consisted entirely of cavalry, with some three or four guns. Between three and four o'clock, P. M., Halley's cavalry, which was in the advance, fell back to Womack's woods, under the report that a rebel force, variously estimated at three to seven thousand, was maneuvering through the woods in order to flank them. At Womack's woods, our forces halted and drew up in line of battle. Col. Halley sending into the city for reinforcements. At this time our informant left the position.

About eight o'clock last night, a negro man, belonging to Elias Dorsey, came into the city with his master's carriage, and reports that, at the time he left home, our forces, consisting of infantry, cavalry, and artillery, were drawn up in line of battle about a mile or a mile and a half side of Middletown, awaiting an attack by the rebel forces, which were believed to number about six thousand, with eight pieces of artillery. No engagement had occurred when he left (about six o'clock), but was almost momentarily expected.

P. S.—We learn from gentlemen who arrived in town about ten o'clock last night, that about five o'clock in the afternoon, while our forces were drawn up in line of battle, the advance of the rebels made their appearance. A charge was made upon them, and they were driven back through Middletown as far as Floyd's Fork. Our forces, knowing that the object of the rebels was to flank and cut them off, if possible, fell back again to Womack's woods, and in that vicinity, on the farms of Winchester and L. Dorsey.

"STONEWALL" JACKSON WHIPPED AGAIN. According to the Richmond papers "Stonewall" Jackson was in command of the rebel left at the battle of Antietam, which was so badly handled by gallant Joe Hooker, who, in fact, had beaten Jackson at 10 o'clock in the morning, and had he not been wounded at that time, would have routed him. Longstreet, of all the rebel Generals, did the best, as he yielded but little ground in the center. As has been repeatedly stated, "Stonewall" Jackson has been overrated. He is a good dashing partisan General, but that is all. On the field he is a failure.

FROM ELIZABETHTOWN.—We learn that a bearer of dispatches arrived last night from Elizabethtown. The train of Gen. Buell's army, which has two or three times been reported as captured, was believed to be safe, and expected to arrive at that point last night. About twelve miles from the city, he passed a detachment of troops in charge of two hundred and fifty prisoners, who were captured in the vicinity of Elizabethtown. We did not learn the particulars of their capture.

GUERRILLAS AT CARROLLTON.—We learn that as the 14th May came down yesterday, a company of about 250 guerrillas, in command of Captain Gilpin, or Gibson, made their appearance, awaiting the landing of the boat, but they were disappointed. The boat carried a howitzer on her bow, which she uncovered, ready for an attack, but they skeddaddled, and the packet came on without stopping.

Redpath, the famous English swindler, who was transported for his crimes some time ago, is leading a virtuous life in Australia. He is a member of the working committee in a working men's association, and professes religion. His associate on the committee is one Thomas Corigan, who was transported for killing his wife in a drunken fit.

A man from Charleston says, that the six hundred and fifty-two houses burned in the great fire, have as yet been replaced by only ten small brick stores. One-third burned, one-third deserted, and the other third inhabited only by the poorer classes. Charleston is draining the "poisoned Chalice" she prepared for the country's ruin.

We have never seen in the history of the successful engagements of the celebrated Miss Provost, such a crowd as was at the theater last evening. To-night we are to have "Evadne, or the Statues," with the musical bagatelle of "Jenny Lind." The house will be filled to overflowing, we early.

REBEL REGIMENT CAPTURED.—We learn that official dispatches were received in the city last night, announcing the capture of an entire rebel regiment, Crawford's Georgia cavalry. The capture was made by some of our cavalry stationed at Elizabethtown.

Col. Comfort, who raised the well-known "Enfance Perdue" regiment, has been released from Fort Monroe, where he has been confined during the last three months upon charges some time since preferred against him by some of his officers.

Victor Emanuel will soon visit France. It is said he will escort his daughter, the future Queen of Portugal, who will pass through France, and will be afterwards present at the baptism of his grandchild, Prince Napoleon's son.

The Campbells had a full house last night, and their performances were greeted with unbounded applause. Go to-night, as this is their last appearance.

R. Wagoner, the music composer, has been bitten recently by a rabid dog. It is supposed he will lose his thumb.

THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION. Being on a dying visit amongst the Hoosiers, I have gathered up a few items which are of some little interest.

The President's proclamation and your correspondent arrived in this section at the same time, and hence I had an opportunity to witness its reception by the people, which, I assure you, was continued. I have found but very few men who give it a hearty approval—only those who belong to the ultra radical school of politics; in other words, the Abolitionists. Upon the subject of the proclamation, I find three classes of opinion:

1st. The radicals, who approve it as far as it goes, but are dissatisfied that it does not declare immediate, unconditional, and universal emancipation. (As before stated, these are few.)

2d. The more conservative Republicans, who do not so much object to the matter of the proclamation as to the time of its promulgation. At this time they deem it inexpedient, and would have postponed it until the rebels were expelled from Kentucky and all the border States—fearing that whilst they are possessed of such an amount of the mixed territory, it will cause thousands of men to desert from the Union.

3d. The Democratic party, who utterly condemn it as impolitic, unwise, and, if attempted, to be counterproductive. They contend that neither Congress nor the President has any authority to interfere with the domestic institutions of the States; and that though the military power may be used to enforce the property of citizens, it may only do so to the extent that is necessary to the service. They utterly repudiate the idea that emancipation is necessary as a war measure, and argue that its attempted enforcement will render the work of putting down the rebellion tenfold more difficult. That if the slaves be used by the rebels to cultivate the soil, thus virtually furnishing an equal number of men for the rebel army, yet, that in order to reach those farmers who otherwise would not have done so; and further, that it may retard enlistments in the Federal army to some extent.

Crops in this section of the State are light, particularly the corn crop. There will be a sufficient yield for home consumption, but little surplus. Whilst here, I have had ample opportunity to test the hospitality of the good people of our sister State, and though Kentucky has always laid claims to pre-eminence in this particular, I can longer assert such claim. A more kindly welcome could not have been extended to one among my native "sand hills" than I have met in the "valleys" of old Ripley. I prefer the manner in which I have seen, on account of its quietness, simplicity, speed and durability, and I do most sincerely recommend it to others.

The most efficient way of ending the rebellion is to enroll your names amongst the brave defenders of the Union. More recruits are wanted for the 36th Mounted Infantry. All who can raise men, and those who will enlist to drive the invaders from our own doors, and out of our beloved old State, will please call on A. J. Persons contemplating the purchase of a Sewing Machine, are reminded that the WHEELER & WILSON has just taken the highest premium at the World's Fair in London. Office for the sale, No. 1, Masonic Temple. WM. SUMNER & Co., Agents.

When Will this War End? When President-making no longer is thought of; When army contractors are hanged or all bought off; When Generals no longer of Generals get jealousy; When the President don't meet all men as "half-fellows"; When the people all learn good sense and buy their clothing at J. M. Armstrong's, on Main, opposite the National.

We would call the attention of officers and soldiers desiring any thing in the hat and cap line, to the well-known house of Green and Green, corner of Main and Fourth streets. They are thoroughly posted in their business, having been furnishing the army since the commencement of the war. They make the finest cap worn in the army.

A SEASONABLE HINT.—The season for ague and fever is at hand, and in number of cases already occurring give evidence that it will prevail to a considerable extent, and every precaution should be used to guard against it, as well as every means to prevent its progress. They can be procured at Raymond & Tyler's, No. 74, Fourth street, near Main, where the best medicines may be had, and the necessary advice given. No charge for advice.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of the public to the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine, so long and favorably known in this community. Of its peculiar merits we have no desire to multiply words, and will append the opinion of one of our most noted and popular citizens, Hon. C. A. Wickliffe:

"Messrs. Sumner & Co.: I purchased one of Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machines about a year ago—it has given entire satisfaction. The amount of work which can be performed is very great, and it is a great labor saving machine. I regard it as a valuable improvement and invention. I prefer the machine to any I have seen, on account of its quietness, simplicity, speed and durability, and I do most sincerely recommend it to others."

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF KENTUCKY,
 Louisville, Sept. 19, 1862.

General Order No. 13.
 The following paragraphs from "General Order No. 107," published by General Halleck, General-in-Chief of the armies of the United States, are hereby republished to the army of Kentucky. These orders will be strictly obeyed. Commanders of divisions, brigades, regiments and detachments will be held responsible for their rigid observance in their respective commands.

By command of Maj. Gen. Nelson,
 J. M. STACEY, A. A. G.

3. The laws of the United States and the general laws of war authorize, in certain cases, the seizure and conversion of private property for the subsistence, transportation, and other uses of the army; but this must be distinguished from pillage, and the taking of property for public purposes, which is strictly prohibited. The property of the enemy, when taken, must be accounted for, and the proceeds thereof must be paid to the proper authorities. The property of the enemy, when taken, must be accounted for, and the proceeds thereof must be paid to the proper authorities.

4. All property, public or private, taken from alleged enemies, must be inventoried and duly accounted for. If the property taken is claimed as private, receipts must be given to such claimants or their agents. Officers will be held strictly accountable for all property taken by them or their authority, and it must be returned for the same as any other public property.

5. When foraging parties are sent out for provisions or other stores, the commanding officer of such party will be held accountable for the conduct of his command, and will make a true report of all property taken.

6. No officer or soldier will, without authority, leave his colors or ranks to take private property or to enter a private house for the purpose. All such acts are punishable with death, and an officer who permits them is equally as guilty as the actual offenders.

7. Commanding officers of armies and corps will be held responsible for the execution of these orders in their respective commands.

By command of
 Maj. Gen. Halleck,
 General-in-Chief of the Army.
 E. D. TOWNSEND,
 Assistant Adj. Gen.

HEADQUARTERS KENTUCKY VOLUNTEERS,
 Louisville, Sept. 18, 1862.
 General Order No. 24.
 All volunteers for the State service, assembling under the recent proclamation of the Governor, will be at once mustered into service as part of the active militia of the State.

2. Company organizations will be at once effected, and elections of company officers held. The names of the officers elected, and the muster roll of the company, will be immediately forwarded to this Department, so that commissions may be issued without delay.

3. When more than six companies have assembled at a single rendezvous, a battalion may be at once organized, and its officers elected and reported for commissions; and if a sufficient number of men shall be found at a single place of rendezvous to form three battalions, they may then go on to perfect a regimental organization.

4. The State Guard law having been substantially re-enacted, is hereby referred to for full information as to the details of the organization of companies, battalions, regiments, brigades and divisions. The law will be found printed at length in the appendix to Stanton's Revised Statutes, 2d Vol., pages 780 to 804. Particular attention is called to the provisions of the 7th Section of the law, which prescribes the manner of holding elections and mustering men into service.

5. All good and loyal citizens of the Commonwealth, within the military age, are urgently called upon to enroll themselves as members of the State Guard, so as to be ready for service as soon as the arms and equipments can be provided; in the meantime, much instruction may be obtained by drill without arms.

6. Muster rolls and blanks will be furnished on application to this Department. By order of the Governor.
 J. W. FINNELL,
 Adj. Gen. Ky. Vols.
